ONE: Fair Pay and Job Opportunities are critically important to a woman's economic future. This pillar helps to ensure that women have a living wage and access to job training opportunities that can lift them and their families from poverty. It also ensures that women are paid equally to men for the same work.	SB 358	Jackson	California Fair Pay Act	Asm Appropriations	Chang Eggman Weber

TWO: Childcare - Access to quality childcare affects a mother's whole economic future. Childcare is essential to ensure children are receiving developmentally appropriate education and parents can work knowing their children are learning safely. Early childhood education teachers are part of an industry of women who need to be treated fairly with rates that reflect the cost of doing business in California.
